Moved high school sports content (articles, galleries, videos) behind hard paywall

Except for scores and “player of the week” (often sponsored) — which remained metered along with other sections’ content

We focus on both audience size & quality

Understand how readers read at different stages of the funnel.
What are we doing to share our work with net-new audiences? How does that differ from what we offer subscribers?

Make plans for getting readers to delve deeper into our sites.
What are we doing to welcome new readers into our work? How do we get another view from loyal audiences?

Build tactics to encourage all types of readers to return.
What incentive do we provide for occasional readers to return? How does that differ from what we give to subscribers?
